

CHANGES IN LEGISLATION AND SERVICE MEDALS

The Service ( 1917-1921) Medal with Bar<sup>1</sup> was issued to all persons in possession of a Military Service Certificate entitling them to a pension under the Military Service Pensions Acts, 1924 to 1934. Persons not in possession of a Certificate, but who satisfied the Minister for Defence that, had they applied for a pension, their service was such as to qualify for the award of a pension, would also receive the Medal with Bar.

The medal, without bar was issued to applicants who were enrolled in the Irish Republican Army, Fianna Eireann, Cumann na mBan and Irish Citizens Army not less than three months prior to 11 July 1921, but who did not qualify for pension<sup>2</sup>.

The Army Pensions Act, 1943 provided for the grant of a special allowance<sup>3</sup> in specified circumstances to persons who had been awarded pensionable service under the 1924 to 1934 Acts in respect of service during Easter Week 1916 or were awarded a wound or a disability pension for wounds etc. contracted during that week.

The Army Pensions Act, 1946 amended Section 7 of the 1943 Act so as to make eligible for the grant of special allowances persons<sup>4</sup> who fulfilled the conditions as to lack of means and incapability laid down in the 1943 Act and who were awarded a medal in respect of membership of the IRA, Fianna Eireann, Cumann na mBan and Irish Citizen Army continuously for the three months ending on the 11 July 1921.

Thus, persons with no active service were now entitled to a monetary award, once the conditions set out in the Act, as to their lack of means and incapability of self-support by reason of permanent infirmity of mind or body, were proven.

Section 41 of the Army Pensions Act, 1953 also extended eligibility in respect of any period of service from 23 April 1916 to 11 July 1921 for which a military service certificate had been granted.
